Good morning sun

I always say Hello.
I say good morning sun.
I say good morning Mr. Elephant.
Mr. Elephant is big.
I say good morning to the plants, like trees or flowers.
I say good morning to the turtles, but turtles are slow.
THE FACTORY ON THE HILL

by: José Luis Moreno Cervantes
Categoría “B”
Once upon a time there was a boy named Luisito who lived on a hill with his parents and his little brother. Everyday Luisito and his brother played near a waterfall. One day they went fishing...
They were so happy, when suddenly instead of a fish they grabbed an old and ugly boot stained with a strange liquid. They realized that the waterfall was contaminated and ran to their house to warn their parents.
Their parents went to see as soon as they found out and realized that there was a factory on the top of the hill leaking a strange liquid. Luisito's parents went to notify the problem to the factory.
The owner of the factory apologized to the people and fixed the problem. All the hill was so happy and grateful with Luisito and his family for doing the right thing. Luisito and his little brother felt like heroes.
The people of the hill also felt a little guilty because some of them were throwing garbage at the waterfall, so they decided to make groups to clean it. Now the waterfall is completely clean and beautiful.

A BEAUTIFUL SCHOOL

by: Alex Emiliano Ramírez Macías
Categoría “C”
There was once upon a time in a school in Ciudad Victoria, in which there were some disabled children who used a wheelchair, the other children in the school didn't help them instead ignored them, they didn't make friends with them.
But there was a boy named Daniel, he was very friendly with them, he helped them up the ramp, helped with their backpacks up to the classroom.
But also other discriminated him for joining them and when he arrived home his mother named Martha asked – How was your day in the school? – But Daniel would answer – very good moomy – without telling mom what really happened.
Days passed and in one occasion the director announced in the line that was organizing a basketball tournament that would take place in the school.
Daniel wanted to enter to the basketball team, but his teammates did not want to accept him in the team, Daniel say the Director and the director told other teams that if there was room to play and they told him not, “we are already full”.
Then disabled children and Daniel made a team and they registered for the tournament and although they had disabilities played and managed to reach the finals then they won and were champions.
And all children were impressed from that day forward, all school children supported them and accepted them despite their disabilities setting a great example of solidarity and respect for all these people there are like us and they need our support.

Categoría “A”
What's happening? What's that? It feels cold! Is that water? I miss my mom!
Wow! My belly is growing! What am I? Why am I here? I’m so confused!
Wow! I’m out. It’s warm and nice here. Hey! there is my mom. I’m a tree! I want to grow tall.
THE NAUGHTY MONKEY

by: Gustavo Alonso Maldonado
Categoría “A”
Once upon a time there was a big jungle full of animals like tigers, lions, monkeys, elephants and giraffes.
There was a naughty monkey named Gus who liked to hide his friend’s bananas.
One day Gus took the bananas, not knowing those bananas were needed for his birthday cake.
On his birthday, his friends came with no cake. Crying, Gus told them the truth and apologized.
His friends forgave him and they all went out to find more bananas to make his birthday cake.
MY DADDY IS A FIREFIGHTER

by: Osvaldo Noé Álvarez González

Categoría “C”
Once upon a time there was a boy that was studying the 5th grade at a public elementary school. His teacher wanted to see how her students developed their language, so she asked them to write a story about their favorite topics. Gerardo decided to write about his favorite person in the world, his hero, his dad.
His Dad was a firefighter, and he always thought of him as the strongest and bravest man on Earth. Gerardo had the story about his father already made, and he was so excited to tell it to this classmates, so they would be jealous. But, when he arrived home, his Daddy was taking a shower to go to work and...
Suddenly he heard a terrifying scream. Both, Gerardo and his Mom, ran over there and they got scared and started asking what was happening?

- What’s going on?
- What’s happening?

And the father answers:

- Help! Help! Someone help me!!!
They ask again:
- What’s going on?
And answers:
- Open the door quickly, I am going to fly like the human cannonball!
- What happened Dad?
Gerardo asks, and his father answers:
- Go to your room, fast!
- But, why Dad?
- There’s a horrible beast in the bathroom!!
- What are you talking about?
- Is it a snake? or a spider? Is it the Boogie Man?
- No, no it’s not the Boogie Man! It’s something worse than that! A mouse!!
HA HA HA HA HA HA
HA HA HA HA HA HA
HA HA HA HA HA HA

My Dad is scared by a little mouse, so I will save him.
He will always be my superhero and I will be his superhero too!
My superhero is very strong. He is very brave. He once saved one of my classmates from drowning in the pool at my pool party. He jumped and pulled him out.
My hero helps me with my homework and plays with me. We make mud pies to play. He gives me confidence. We pray together at night.
When I sometimes get sick my hero helps my mom take care of me, they give me medicine. With their care, I feel better.
I love my superhero, he is the best. He also loves my mom and sisters. He takes care of all my family. I help him too.

I call him “DADDY”, the best superhero in the whole world.
GOLDEN EGG

There once was a boy named Johnny who lived in a small town outside the city.
He lived very happy with his parents and his brother and sister, Lupita and Ruben. Johnny and Ruben were playing and running around the field. Lupita watched them sadly because she could not walk. She was in a wheelchair. They loved her and cheered her up. They hoped that their father would collect enough money for the operation to make her walk again.
Once good day Johnny’s mother went to the chicken coop to find eggs, and what was her surprise when she looked in the nest she found a bright egg. Johnny’s mother ran to give notice to her spouse and was amazed with the egg that was found.
They immediately went to the city and they gave them a lot of money for it. Then the first thing they did was to take Lupita to the doctor so he would operate her and walk again.
Thanks to that golden egg they operated Lupita and she walked again. Lupita now runs and plays happily in the fields with her brothers Johnny and Ruben.

LILI'S DREAM

by: Salma Madai Núñez Hernández
Categoría “B”
There was once a girl named Lili. She lived with her parents and a younger brother. Her house was in a beautiful little town with lots of trees, small houses and a good climate but was far from the city.
One day she went to sleep that night and had a wonderful dream. She dreamed of a huge circus. She was accompanied by her family. They sat very close to see the big lions with their trainer, big elephants and small horses, the strong trapeze artists, jugglers with balls of many colors and the funny clowns with that huge and colorful smile. Everything was happiness, joy, music and fun.
When she awoke she felt very happy and ran to see her mother. She asked her, “Dreams come true?” Mom said, “Yes” and then took in her arms with a lot of love and surprise, again affirmed “Yes daughter dreams come true and never let anyone tell you that it is not true. Never forget it!”
But they are poor and her parents can’t take her to the city to see the circus and it will never come to her little town. But she knew the circus existed by the tales her mother told her when she was growing up in the city.
One day she asked a star to make her dream come true. Days later, to everybody’s surprise, the circus came to where she lived. Even if she could not pay the cost to go to the circus, she knew that dreams come true as her mother said. And only looking at the lights illuminating the large tent, made her fell the happiest girl in the world. She turned to heaven and thanked the star wherever it was, for making her dream come true.
A BIG PROBLEM

by: Dallana Ramírez González
Categoría “B”
A long time ago there was a pretty girl named Juanita who lived with her grandparents on the top of a hill, far away from the river. She took care of them.
One day Juanita’s grandfather asked Juanita if she could go to the river and bring some water to use it for cooking and taking baths. She took some jugs to carry some fresh and clean water.
Juanita took a funny donkey to help her to carry the water. When they arrived to the river she washed her face and hands. She filled all the jugs and when they were going back she heard a voice who told her, “Juanita please listen to me”.
Juanita was afraid because she did not know who was talking to her. It was the river, the river was talking to Juanita. The river said, “I love to give you water but there is a factory that is contaminating me and if I give you contaminated water you can die”.

Juanita understood the damage and told her grandparents the problem. They talked to the governor and he moved the factory to another place. The river remained clean and the people did not die from the contaminated water.
